Questions and Answers

Question:

With federal funding for Medicaid on the chopping block, how will Massachusetts react if you do not receive funding. Do you have a plan to close that gap?

Answer:

We are extensively monitoring the situation down in DC. As folks know, it is very fluid right now, so there is a lot of changing and moving parts on a daily basis. We are reviewing the relevant orders and policies and what statements are being made out there, so we can focus our attention on the programs that might be on the chopping block or might see some major programmatic changes.

To the extent that such proposed reductions to federal funding are actually implemented and legally enforceable, the Commonwealth may adjust the scope of certain programs or otherwise take actions to manage the budget to react to those impacts. But as of right now we are just continuing to monitor and manage internally until they actually take effect.
